

Misty Davies

Dr. Misty Davies is a computer research engineer at NASA Ames Research Center, working within the Robust Software Engineering Technical Area. She is also the group lead for the Systems Thinking, Architecture and Collaboration (STAC) group. Her work is focused on predicting the behavior of complex, engineered systems early in design as a way to improve these systems' safety, reliability, performance, and cost.